WELCOME, SOLDIERS' FRIEND!

Let every patriot come forward to welcome our Chief Magistrate to-day.

A polar fire when the dread light of rebellion first threw its midnight pall over the land, he led the Commonwealth out of the treacherous sloughs where Democratic misrule and Buchanan would have left it, to position of exaltation and honor on the rock of Truth and Loyalty.

He foresight organized the Pennsylvania Reserve Corps while yet the recreant Seward was prospousing an end of the war in sixty days.

Pennsylvania had never such an army. The wisest statesmen ridiculed it as a useless display and expenditure, but prophetic CURTIN bore all taunts meekly, hoping and praying that his own convictions of its might would prove unfounded. That corps, pouring down from the Cumberland and Susquehanna, saved Washington after "the first Bull Run" and drew to our Governor the love, thanks and gratitude of Mr. LINCOLN and the nation.

Through all the war his voice rang over the land, encouraging the timid and comforting the sorrowing in tones of tender sympathy or cheerful courage. On many a hard fought field his bands raised the wounded and ministered relief.

When the treasure in the State vaults failed, his personal influence with banks and bankers raised the funds with which to carry on the great struggle until a loyal Legislature could be elected and assembled.

Welcome, then, Governor, in the name of our valiant heroes, inspired by your spirit to deeds of daring and immortality! Welcome in the name of our valiant braves who in the same great cause suffered torture and mauling! Welcome in the name of those who passed safely through that fiery furnace with only the smell of fire upon their garments! Welcome to homes there live to bless, and those died to protect and honor.

Why General Geary was Nominated for Governor.

When the Republican party placed John W. Geary in nomination for Governor, they were controlled by two grand objects, namely:

John W. Geary, during two wars, had proven himself a good soldier. In the Mexican war he conducted himself with bravery, and fought with a zeal which attracted the attention and applause of his superiors in command. During the war to crush rebellion he was one of the earliest to enter and the last to leave the army. As an evidence of his worth as a soldier, it may be stated that Geary entered the service of the Government commissioned as a Colonel and left a Major General. He participated in over sixty battles, lost a hand and accomplished sum, and carries on his own person wounds received in flight, from the effects of which he will never recover.

An executive officer, John W. Geary has given the most incontestable proof of his great ability. In Kansas he was only prevented from bringing order out of chaos by the corruption of the Buchanan administration. In Mexico, while a soldier there, he was ever selected by his superiors in command for the discharge of delicate executive duties. During the war to suppress the slaveholders' rebellion, Gen. Geary won the same distinction. Gen. Sherman always selected Geary for all services involving high executive duties, and on more than one occasion made him Governor of cities captured, because Geary was the first to enter the besieged cities. Secretary Stanton said of him that "he disdained more money than any man of his grade in the army, and his economy with the Government are the more satisfactory of any on file in the War Department."

For these traits and services the Republican party nominated John W. Geary for Governor.

PETROLEUM BANK BUILDING SALE.—An announced by an advertisement in our columns for the last two weeks, the sale of the Bank Building took place at 10 o'clock, a.m. yesterday. A large number of spectators were present, mostly from eriously. Col. Ames read a description of the real estate offered, stated the terms, and gave all the necessary information concerning the title. As soon as the property was up, bidding began at $5,000 by H. M. C. Pease, but in a short time was run up to $9,500 by D. H. Mitchell, John Dalzell, A. J. Sink, and Mr. Pease. Some delay was necessary to give new bidders time to make examinations, then the bidding was recommenced and after some hammering was struck off to John Dalzell for $9,700. The property was considered cheap at anything below $10,000. We are informed that Mr. Dalzell was at once offered and refused $1,000 per year for the first four. What use the property will be put to we are not informed, though rumors have it all settled.

THE UNION nominares for Erie county are: Congress, G. W. Scofield; Law Judge, J. P. Vincent; Assembly, Col. Woodward and McCrory; District Attorney, Charles M. Lynch; Prothonotary, C. P. Rogers; Associate Judges, William Benson and Hollis King; Register and Recorder, J. Harvey; Treasurer, C. W. Koller; Commissioner, S. T. Godfrey; Auditor, C. Harlech; Comptroller, W. J. Sterrett; Director of Poor, Thomas Willis.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK of this place has purchased the line of pipe from Pithole and Bull Run to Miller farm, and are now moving a large amount of oil daily to Miller. Mr. Geo. S. Stewart has the management of the line, which is a guarantee that the shippers will be greatly facilitated in moving oil. See the advertisement in another column.

JUSTICE MOWBRAY's decision in the case of Wild vs. Doherty will be given to-morrow. The defendant Doherty was discharged and the complaint against Godfrey and Rouse was withdrawn.

HOSPITALITIES.—The City Council of Cincinnati refused by almost an unanimous vote to extend the city's hospitality to the President.

Reserved Seats for the Ladies. There will be reserved seats for the ladies to-day on the square fronting the platform, as well as in Corinthian Hall. The ladies are respectfully invited to attend, both day and evening.

Get Your Torches! All persons who design participating in the torchlight procession should call at Bain &amp; Copeland's and secure their torches without delay. The supply is limited.

The procession will form precisely at 7 o'clock p.m., at the corner of Spring and Franklin streets, and move through the principal streets of the city. Fall in.

Illuminate!

The illuminations to-night are not designed for partisan effect and should not be considered. They are a tribute of respect to our worthy Governor, Andrew G. Curtin. In this view of the case, doubtless some of our citizens who do not act politically with the Republican Union party will cheerfully participate in the display. We hope to see every store and dwelling, every public and private office, send forth its cheering beams of welcome to the honored Chief Magistrate of the Keystone State.

Call at one of the Executive Committee Rooms and get your candlesticks. Procure paraffin or sterne candles, take down your window curtains and have your lights trimmed and burning as early as seven o'clock.

Dedication of the Soldiers' Monument at Franklin.

The dedication of the Soldiers' Monument at Franklin on Monday was a grand and imposing affair. More than ten thousand people, says the Record, were gathered together from various parts of Venango county to do honor to the memory of the brave men who sacrificed their lives that the nation might live. The procession was composed of two regiments, one of infantry and one of cavalry, and two batteries, numbering about two thousand. The troops were under the command of Col. A. P. Duncan. The music was furnished by the Franklin Brass Band. The procession marched through all the principal streets in the following order:

Up Liberty to High street, up High to Buffalo, up Buffalo to Oak, down Oak to Otter, up Otter to Fox, up Fox to Liberty, thence down Liberty to the Court House.

A free dinner was provided for all in the procession at 1 o'clock p.m. on the upper Diamond.

The dedication services were commenced at half past two o'clock p.m., and concluded as follows:

Republican Rally at Centreville—Club Organized—Speeches and Resolutions.

The Republican Union Club met at Centreville on Monday evening to perfect its organization, and listen to addresses from J. H. Baker, Esq.; and Capt. W. W. Gray of this city. The meeting was both large and enthusiastic. The speeches were of the right stamp and awakened an earnest and determined purpose to adhere immediately to the platform and candidates of the Republican Union party. The sense of the meeting is more fully expressed in the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved: That the unparalleled losses incurred by the rebel people in the North in the suppression of the rebellion, we protest against the re-administration of rebels, and particularly in the Government, without satisfactory guarantees of future good behavior.

Resolved: That we consider it the duty of Congress to protect the Union men of the South against unrepentant and revengeful rebels, and that the necessity of such protection has been fully demonstrated by the unprovoked massacre at Newbern, at Moorefield, and other places.

Resolved: That we approve the Amendments to the Constitution of the United States, especially that one which bases the representation in Congress upon voters instead of population.

Resolved: That in Major-Gen. John W. Geary, our candidate for Governor, we have a brave and gallant soldier, and an experienced Statesman, in whom we can confidently repose the responsibilities of our Chief Executive.

Resolved: Hon. Darwin A. Finney, our candidate for Congress, Peck for Sheriff, and the remaining candidates for State and County tickets, are true, up-to-the-time of Lee's surrender. A man who has bared his breast for freedom, and up to the time of Lee's surrender, ought to be sacred against the scurvy of wily jumpers and substitute brokers, whose only vitality during the war exhibited itself in wringing efforts to make money out of the necessities of the Government."

We really see no plan of deliverance from the reign of anarchy and revolution which President Johnson's policy bids fair to inflict upon the country, save by the impeachment of the great apostate."

As to Gen. McClellan's military record I have nothing to say, further than he went into the army with a good official position, and I presume had a creditable standing with hundreds of officers, who were present in with the general current, without comprehending the breadth of the issues involved, as his position now plainly demonstrates. And what is said of him might with as much propriety be said by the Journal of President Johnson. Yet we find that editor assuming his readers that he "really sees no plan of deliverance from the reign of anarchy and revolution which President Johnson's policy bids fair to inflict upon the country, save by the impeachment of the great apostate."

Well, reader, with this fearful condition of the country full in view, who are you called upon by this same paper to send as your representative to Congress? The Copperhead candidate, A. H. McClellan! The man, whom the Copperhead Committee of this State selected, with Judge Church, ex-Gov. Bigler, Judge Woodward, and Buchanan's old advisor, Attorney General Black, and other Copperheads of the deepest color, to represent Pennsylvania in the Copper-Johnson Convention, which met at Philadelphia on the 14th of August? The man whose name is attached to the call for the Copper-Johnson Convention, to come off at Cleveland on the 15th inst., and who is now stamping this District, hating Andrew Johnson and his Infamous policy, which editor tells us bids fair to inflict upon the country a reign of anarchy and revolution?" Would not Andrew Johnson trouble in view of the election of such men to Congress?

I have nothing to say to the editor of the Journal and his followers; they are likely to do their work and will doubtless have their reward. But I do not upon any—it such they be—who feel disaffected at the result of the nomination for Congress in this district, and honestly hesitate in giving their support to Mr. Finney; and who have a controlling interest in that paper, without cause being assigned at the time. The difficulties arising from a financial strait into which the management were temporarily thrown at that time, and which perhaps may injuriously have been laid to my charge, as well as certain little jealousies existing not necessary to elaborate here, may have been the cause. Some change of opinion concerning my ability to conduct such a paper as they might think the emergency required, might also afford an excuse; but no definite explanation was not yet been offered, nor is any desired.

At a subsequent meeting of this same Democratic Committee, of which I was the Secretary, the proceedings of the Committee in reference to this matter were temporally transplanted, being likely to be irregular and informal. I suggested that a record should be made of their action, so concerned myself, expressing at the same time my opinion of their conduct. Some have been so far as to claim that the record was not necessary to elaborate here, may have been the cause. Some change of opinion concerning my ability to conduct such a paper as they might think the emergency required, might also afford an excuse; but no definite explanation was not yet been offered, nor is any desired.

But give us Union Loyal men, the boys in blue, the man who loves his country, the Constitution, the rights of all. He who knows his duty and knowing dares to do it.

Let us honor him with the reward such men deserve, and consign traitors, Copperheads, cowards, and renegades to the infamy forever, "Salat" boys!

THE UNION BAND.

LYNN'S Chemical Writing Fluid.

TITUSVILLE, September 10, 1866.

MESSRS. BLOOM &amp; CO., &amp; COYNE;

GENTS: Will receive a sample of Writing Fluid manufactured by me at my office in the Oil Creek passenger depot. It is a chemical fluid, less liable to freeze than any now before the public, and it is less sensitive to the weather than any writing fluid now manufactured. It stands the oxalic acid test, while other celebrated inks are entirely obliterated by it. It flows freely from the pen, does not gum up or clog the pen. It is done in three size bottles; the common small size usually sold for a dime, and in pint and quart bottles. Please give it a severe trial, and if found worthy of your recommendation any assistance from your influence will be appreciated and reciprocated. Yours truly, &amp;c., G. W. LYNN.

Manufacturer.

The above communication accompanied a bottle of Mr. Lynn's ink, which upon trial gives entire satisfaction. The low price at which it is manufactured should insure an extensive sale. The links generally marketed throughout the country do not answer the severe tests which recommend Mr. Lynn's sample.

The report of the pistol was heard, and a few minutes afterward the young man entered the store of a grocer and asked for some water to wash off the bullet from his head. On being questioned as to how he was hurt, he said that he was hit with a pistol—he would be posted if he got dead."
